

MAYOR OBJECTS TO AID FOR HOSPITAL

Vetoes Levy of Two Per Cent, Which was Made by Council for that Institution.

SAYS COUNTY IS HELPING

Mayor Also Files Reasons for Vetoing Appropriation for Flushing Paved Streets.

This was "veto day" at the city building. Two appropriations were dealt death blows by Mayor Ross. Both were provided in the ordinance which was passed by the city council ten days ago and the time expired today for its rejection or acceptance by the executive.

After the mayor vetoed the sections he went to Columbus.

The two per cent. hospital levy was decorated with the Mayor's veto and reasons were filed and appended thereto. The other veto was firmly affixed to the appropriation of $3,400 for flushing the improved streets next year. The action taken on the latter appropriation was not a surprise. In fact, the mayor virtually vetoed the ordinance Friday but his reasons were not set forth in due form until today.

The mayor in substance stated in his veto to the two per cent. levy for hospital purposes that the county council had granted an appropriation of $2,000 for that institution and that local taxpayers would contribute a portion of that sum. He held it would be an injustice to them to make another levy on city property. The hospital levy last year was six cents but the council reduced it to four this year.

The hospital board is in a dilemma over the action of the mayor as it had figured on the income from the city levy. The hospital has not had sufficient funds to properly maintain it, it is stated, and the appropriation was asked from the county to assist in meeting the necessary bills.

The reasons for the mayor's veto to the appropriation for flushing the improved streets next year are well known. He has set them forth at various times in the Republican and said that he believed that flushing was an "extra service" which property owners along the improved streets were getting and which was not enjoyed by those on graveled streets. He further declared that the graveled streets were in a bad condition and too much money is being spent for keeping the paved sections in a sanitary condition.

There is much speculation as to the next step of the majority of the council who are known to be opposed to the mayor's plan. They feel that the property owners along the improved streets have paid for the improvement and that it is an injustice to further tax them for something the city should do. It is further pointed out by those who oppose the mayor's plan that the concrete and brick streets get the heaviest travel and for that reason are entitled to a larger proportion of the funds than the streets in the outlying sections.

COMMISSIONER TO HEAR ARGUMENTS

Local Gas and Electric Rates Will be Discussed at Conference Tuesday Afternoon.

LOWER SCHEDULES ARE ASKED

If Way is Not Opened for Adjustment Then Case Will go Before State Commission.

Whether or not the city's case against the Interstate Public Service Company will be taken before the Indiana Public Service Commission will depend largely upon the outcome of a conference between the company's representatives and the council to be held at the city building Tuesday afternoon. The meeting will be in the nature of a court procedure as Judge Clark, a member of the State Commission, will preside. Bernard Korbly, of Indianapolis, who is the company's attorney, will present arguments in favor of the utility and the city's case will be in the hands of City Attorney Albert H. Kasting.

The conference was arranged at the suggestion of all parties concerned and was agreeable to the utility committee of the council composed of J. H. Andrews, C. H. Ahlbrand and Adolph Steinwedel. The entire council, of course, is willing to settle the case out of court if possible. The conference plan was urged by the commission for if a settlement can be reached the ends desired by the utility's committee can be obtained much more quickly than if the case is taken before the commission in the regular way.

The city committee has filed a petition asking for ninety cent gas and 7-cent electricity. At the present time the rate for gas is $1.25 and the electric rate is ten cents per kilowatt.

Judge Clark, it is stated, will act as arbitrator, and will decide any questions that may arise during the arguments. It is expected that all the facts will be presented in full and that the arguments of the attorneys will take up the greater portion of the afternoon. While it is not expected that a final adjustment will be reached at the meeting Tuesday it is thought that a way may be opened whereby the relief asked by the patrons of the company will be given sooner than if the case is fought out before the commission which would require an appraisal of the property and other procedure. If, however, an agreement cannot be reached this way the utility committee intends to prosecute the case as vigorously as possible.

The utility commission informed the local committee this week that a representative would be sent to the conference, but if no settlement is reached the property will be appraised within the next month or six weeks.

Husband of Local Woman Was Soldier in War of 1812

Mrs. Mary Forsythe, Indianapolis avenue, is believed to be the only woman living in southern Indiana whose husband was a soldier in the War of 1812. She is past eighty-eight years old, having celebrated her birthday anniversary on May 28. She is now in feeble health due to an injury sustained six years ago and from which she never fully recovered. Before that time she was unusually active and did much of her household work.

Mrs. Forsythe is a Kentuckian by birth and was born near Lexington. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Smith. When she was thirteen years of age the family moved to New Washington, Clarke county, making the trip overland. A year after they came to Indiana her mother died and she was left with the responsibility of caring for her seven younger brothers and sisters. Several years afterwards her father also passed away and the members of the family scattered to various places in Indiana. Mrs. Forsythe has but one living sister, Mrs. Sarah Reynolds, of Charleston. At the age of twenty-three Mrs. Forsythe was married to David Forsythe who was more than fifty years of age. In 1862 they moved to Seymour and she has lived here continuously since that time. Mr. Forsythe assisting in building the old Methodist church here which stood at the corner of Second and Ewing streets. The timbers for the building were hauled from a woods near Reddington.

Mr. Forsythe was born about 1796 and enlisted in the American army at

MORE CASES OF HOG CHOLERA REPORTED

Epidemic is Spreading to New Sections and Situation is Viewed With Alarm.

LOSSES ARE ALREADY HEAVY

Two Meetings will be Held Next Week in the Infected Area—Dr. L. C. Kigin to Assist.

Despite the quarantine regulations and the other precautionary measures that have been taken to prevent a further spread of hog cholera in the southwestern section of the county, several cases are reported today in several vicinities which have up to this time escaped. The situation is viewed with alarm by farmers and stock raisers and it is feared that the epidemic may extend to practically all parts of the county.

Several cases of cholera were found in the vicinity of Dudleytown Friday. These are the first reported in that community. The epidemic first appeared in Grassy Fork township but the affected area now extends from the Wegan church neighborhood to several miles below Tampico.

County Agent A. D. Cobb was called to the farm of George Redicker this morning to look at some sick hogs and found them cholera victims. Mr. Redicker has about seventeen hogs before the epidemic started and the disease has killed all but ten of them. Seven of that number are now affected. Two have recovered. Other farmers in the same neighborhood report losses correspondingly heavy.

It is estimated that more than five hundred hogs have already died of cholera in the infected districts and that the loss will aggregate several thousand dollars before the epidemic is checked. Farmers throughout the county have been advised to adhere to quarantine regulations for their own protection.

County Agent Cobb has taken personal charge of the cholera situation.

TWO DEFENDANTS ARE ACQUITTED

Special Judge Abel Holds Laws Does Not Make Visit to a Gaming "Place" an Offense.

GAME WAS RAIDED BY POLICE

Police Say Decision Will Not Deter Them from Arresting "Visitors"—Other Court News.

Special Judge Oscar B. Abel acquitted Harry Heuser and Howard Railing who were tried Friday afternoon on a charge of visiting a gaming house. Heuser was acquitted upon the motion of his attorney, F. W. Wesner, after the state's evidence was completed and without introduction of evidence in behalf of the defendant. The state's witnesses failed to show that Heuser was present when the raid was made.

Judge Abel took the Railing case under advisement until 10 o'clock this morning so he could look up several points of law that had been raised during the trial. The defendant's attorney, E. P. Elsner, contended that if his client was present at the game at the time of the raid he had committed no offense as the statute providing a penalty for visiting a gaming "house" cannot be interpreted to mean any place in the open.

Railing and Heuser both testified they were standing at the corner of Second street and Indianapolis avenue on the night of the raid and heard that the officers intended to visit the place. They said they "wanted to see the fun" and arrived at the spot a few minutes before the police. Both testified they had not participated in the game and were not even spectators. The game was raided along the Pennsylvania tracks south of the city.

Judge Abel said in his decision that the statute very clearly defined the offense of visiting a gaming "house," but that the law went on to tell what a "house" was and that he could find no place where a place out in the open could be construed as a

MAY TAKE APPEAL TO HIGHEST COURT

Test Case Against B. & O. Relief Department May be Fought Out Before U. S. Tribunal.

SUITS IN CIRCUIT COURT

Attorneys for Railroad Company Would Like to Reach Agreement About Future Suits.

Attorneys in this county who are representing defendants in suits involving the legality of the relief department of the B. & O. Southwestern railroad received a letter today from McMullen & McMullen, attorneys for the company, suggesting that an agreement be reached so no additional suits of that character would be filed until the questions involved had been threshed out in the supreme court. The letters were addressed to Montgomery & Montgomery and F. W. Wesner, this city, and Applewhite and Robertson, at Brownstown.

Several cases seeking to collect dues paid to the relief department by former employees of the company have been filed in the Jackson circuit court and a number of others are to be filed during the coming term. A few are now docketed for trial in this county. The settlement of the cases now pending and those that might be filed in the future could be adjusted at less expense if the legal points were finally determined.

F. W. Wesner, of this city, claims to be the first attorney in Indiana, to question the legality of the relief department rules. He tried one case in a justice's court and a decision was given in favor of the railroad company. He then took a similar case into circuit court.

Montgomery & Montgomery, represented Charles B. Hagen, in one of the first cases to be carried to the Indiana supreme court. The defendant was given the decision and the court opinion was a severe blow to the relief department. It held that certain sections of the by-laws were unconstitutional. A petition for a rehearing was filed by the company's attorneys.

Another case in which an employee by the name of Miles was the defendant, was carried to the appellate court from Martin county and

RUCKER MENTIONS TAGGART'S NABE

National Democratic Committeeman Brought into Bell Trial For First Time.

CHARGES OF "SLUSH" FUND

Prosecutor Says There Was a Conspiracy to Get Money From Saloonists and Others.

Indianapolis, Sept. 11—Thomas Taggart was brought into the trial of Mayor Joseph E. Bell, charged with conspiring to corrupt the Marion county election, for the first time today when Prosecutor Alva J. Rucker declared that the Democratic national committeeman had "solicited funds from corporations (breweries) in violation of the corrupt practice act, and did not list the contributions in the state or county reports." Taggart is a defendant to the indictment.

It was believed that Rucker when he spoke of Taggart as a "self-styled angel" referred to a statement Mr. Taggart made to the United Press when James (Bud) Gibson, a defendant, pleaded guilty.

It was believed Rucker referred to a statement made by Mr. Taggart to the United Press at the time James (Bud) Gibson pleaded guilty. Taggart said Gibson "is a man I never knew or had any dealings with in my life." Mr. Taggart was not present today and when Rucker made the charge.

Rucker launched today against the police department, headed by Samuel V. Perrott, a defendant in the indictment. "We will show you," Rucker shouted, "that Mayor Bell, Sam Perrott and others conspired to accept money from saloon keepers, brothel keepers and others and that this money went into the 'slush' fund of this election, while the donors continued their illicit business."

"Perrott, a corrupt chief, was appointed by Bell, a corrupt mayor. The police have been sent here and there on political missions by these men until the force is demoralized. They were stationed at the polls to interfere with the registration because this gang wanted the smallest registration possible. We will show negroes were beaten and arrested at the polls."

When twelve negroes filed into Rucker's office today and seated themselves in chairs reserved for state witnesses it was taken as an indication that the state would open its case with evidence tending to show that negroes were intimidated at the polls.

Rucker detailed instances of alleg-

THIN BLUE LINES OF VETERANS TO RE-ENACT THE GRAND REVIEW

Historic Pennsylvania Avenue Will Again Be Scene of the Great Pageant.

Grand Army of the Republic to Have Brilliant Meeting In Capital Sept. 27-Oct. 3.

FIFTY years ago the Union army returned victorious to Washington from the battlefields of the south. The grand review of the conquering troops was held on Pennsylvania avenue, and they passed before President Johnson and his cabinet. President Lincoln had been dead but a few weeks.

When the Grand Army of the Republic meets in Washington Sept. 27-Oct. 3 the thin blue lines of survivors of this historic procession will again form at the same spot and pass in review before President Wilson and members of his cabinet.

In the parade of half a century ago Colonel David J. Palmer of Iowa led a battalion of men. This year Colonel Palmer will lead the procession, having been chosen commander in chief of the Grand Army of the Republic at its meeting last year.

Start From Capitol.

The line of march will be from the capitol to the White House along his-who is expected to greet his former soldiers at the encampment is Major General David McN. Gregg, who is auditor general of Pennsylvania. He commanded with great credit one of Sheridan's cavalry divisions.

Major General Adelbert Ames, who commanded a division of the Tenth corps, distinguished himself at Fort Fisher and afterward was governor of Mississippi and later senator from that state, is living in retirement in Massachusetts and is expected to attend the encampment.

Others who are on the roster of prospective visitors are Admiral George Dewey, who was one of Admiral Farragut's young officers, gaining distinction in the attack upon Port Hudson; Major General Nelson A. Miles, who entered the service as first lieutenant and became colonel of the Sixty-first New York volunteers and who, as a brigade commander, delivered at Sunderland's Station, Va., the momentous blow that cut General Lee's last railroad connection and compelled the surrender of Petersburg and Richmond; Admiral Colby M. Chester, a young of-or nations and to obtain the means to establish a navy and maintain an army.

When the most important of the Confederate archives were removed from Richmond the diplomatic correspondence, consisting of the "state department" records, except the secret service papers which had been destroyed by Mr. Benjamin, were hidden in a barn in Virginia. Later they were packed in four yellow trunks and brought from Richmond to Washington by their custodian, Colonel John T. Pickett. After endeavoring for years to dispose of them Colonel Pickett, having indexed them, took them to Canada, where, in April, 1872, the trunks and their contents were purchased for the use of the United States. On July 3, 1872, the trunks were delivered at the White House and later were removed to the treasury. Colonel Pickett, in payment, received the stipulated sum of $75,000, a large portion of which was distributed to needy widows and orphans of Confederate soldiers.

The "Pickett Papers."

The money for the "Pickett papers" had been appropriated by special act of congress. Many persons asserted that no good could result from the resurrection of these long buried documents even if genuine, as some feared they were not, and that Secretary Boutwell had wasted $75,000 on four trunks filled with worthless paper. However, time has demonstrated the wisdom of this purchase.

The names in the indices of the Pickett papers, in addition to those of the correspondence of the Confederate treasury and other departments, have been of great convenience and inestimable value in defeating fraudulent claims to the amount of

True Secret of Keeping Youthful Looking

(The Beauty Seeker.)

"The real secret of keeping young-looking and beautiful," says a well-known hygienist, "is to keep the liver and bowels normally active. Without these requisites, poisonous waste products remain in the system, polluting the blood and lodging in various organs, tissues, joints. One becomes flabby, obese, nervous, mentally sluggish, dull-eyed, wrinkled and sallow of face."
"But to get liver and bowels working as they ought, without producing evil after-effects, has been the problem. Fortunately, there is a prescription of unquestioned merit, which may now be had in convenient tablet form. Its value is due largely to an ingredient derived from the humble May apple, or its root, which has been called 'vegetable calomel' because of its effectiveness—though of course it is not to be classed with the real calomel of medicinal origin. There is no habit-forming constituent in 'sentinel' tablets—that's the name—and their use is not followed by weakness or exhaustion. Many of the 'hard' or 'harsh' vegetable tablets tend to impart tone and elasticity to the relaxed intestinal wall. Sentinel tablets, which may be procured from any drug store, are worth will do—will prove a revelation to any constipated, liver-troubled person."

Chief Cause of Pimples, Blisters, Sallow Skin

(Messenger of Health.)

Unslightly eruptions, pimples, boils, blotches, sallow or muddy skin, usually are due to a sluggish liver, a constipated bowels—and a polluted blood stream as a consequence. How foolish in such cases to resort to outward applications, which can never have natural, permanent results. If more people only knew it, there is a very simple remedy, to be found in any drug store, which is as effective as it is harmless and quick acting. It is an old formula, long recognized by the medical profession, which has been put in tablet form, and at such small cost no one need now be deprived of its wonderful benefits.
"Sentinel tablets"—that's the name—are entirely vegetable and there's no habit-forming ingredient. You need only get about a dime's worth, and swallow one at bedtime to realize there's nothing else quite so good for the purpose. The action in the morning is so easy, so soothing, and instead of a weakening after-effect, you feel truly refreshed and invigorated. Sentinel tablets are not only the finest remedy known for constipation and torpid liver, but offer the sanest, most sensible treatment for complexion difficulties of the character mentioned.

Great Demand for New Constipation Remedy

"They say that the advent of the 'sentinel tablet' as a vegetable substitute for calomel has resulted in an extraordinary demand for this remarkable product. It seems to have made a hit particularly with those afflicted with chronic constipation, who were quick to recognize its advantages over calomel and the usual laxatives.
Sentinel tablets, aside from their efficacy, doubtless owe their success largely to a tendency to aid in bringing about natural functions—instead of encouraging the 'cathartic habit.' Also, instead of injuring the membranous lining of the organs involved, they exert a healing influence. Instead of weakening, they add tone to the intestinal wall. And they work so easily and gently, they are of course preferred on this account to the violently acting purgatives. Their inexpensiveness is another reason for the popularity of sentinel tablets. One need procure only a dime's worth, and take one tablet upon retiring, to be convinced that the ideal remedy for constipation, torpid liver, and their many evil consequences, has finally been found.—Druggists Review.

THE GRAND REVIEW OF 1865 AND COLONEL DAVID J. PALMER, WHO WILL LEAD THE PROCESSION ON THE FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY.

toric Pennsylvania avenue, which today presents a vastly different appearance from what it was a half century ago, when the returning warriors passed in grand review. It will rival any inaugural parade which the city has ever witnessed.

The greater portion of the marchers will be veterans of the blue, most of whom participated in the march fifty years ago, but it will also include those who belonged to various army corps which did not take part in the concluding event of the civil war. Augmenting the veterans will be the Sons of Veterans and kindred organizations, as well as troops from the regular army, members of the marine corps, sailors from battleships, cadets and independent military bodies and civilian escorts.

Colonel John McElroy, past senior vice commander in chief of the G. A. R., who is regarded by his comrades as a veritable living encyclopedia of the civil war, its men and events, has compiled a roster of the noted figures of the sixties who are expected to attend the big encampment. It is interesting to note in this connection that the two surviving corps commanders of the civil war, Major General Grenville M. Dodge of Council Bluffs, Ia., and Major General James H. Wilson of Wilmington, Del., are expected to be present. General Dodge commanded the noted Sixteenth corps. General Wilson commanded all the cavalry between the Allegheny mountains and the Mississippi river. Details of his troopers swept down through Alabama and Mississippi at the close of the war and captured Jefferson Davis.

Osterhaus Will Be There.

At the head of the list of division commanders is Major General Peter Joseph Osterhaus, who has been living for many years at Mannheim, Germany. At the time of the encampment of the G. A. R. he will go to Washington to visit his son, Admiral Hugo Osterhaus, U. S. N., retired, and will greet comrades of fifty years ago. General Osterhaus stood among the splendid German officers who came to this country to serve the cause of the Union.

Another noted division commander ficer of Farragut's squadron, and Lieutenant General S. B. M. Young, who rose from an enlisted man to be colonel and brevet brigadier general and then entered the regular army, being retired in 1904 with the rank of lieutenant general. He is now governor of the United States Soldiers' home at Washington.

Drummer Boys Again In Line.

General John L. Clem, quartermaster corps, United States army, the last survivor of the civil war in the active list of the army, who retired the other day, is taking a lively interest in the arrangements for the encampment. General Clem was baptized in the fire of battle as a drummer boy in the sanguinary contest at Shiloh. He had many thrilling experiences, and because of his undaunted valor in the "hornets' nest" at Chickamauga Generals Rosecrans and Thomas bestowed upon him the title "Drummer Boy of Chickamauga," which he proudly wears to this day. Prior to the battle of Chickamauga he was "Johnny Shiloh."

Another drummer boy of the civil war who will be present is Abram Springsteen, who was but ten years of age when he entered the service. He will have charge of a drum, fife and bugle corps of 100 sons and grandsons of Union veterans in the grand review at the G. A. R. encampment.

Major General J. Warren Keifer of Ohio has promised to attend the encampment. He wore the double stars of his rank in two wars and is still active. He commanded a brigade and division in the fighting Sixth corps in the civil war and was commander of a division of the Seventh army corps in the war with Spain. General Keifer served several terms in congress and once was speaker of the house of representatives. He declared recently that he is ready and willing to go to war again for Uncle Sam if needed.

Some Historic Relics.

In a fireproof vault opening from a small room on the third floor of the treasury building are the manuscript archives which set forth the diplomatic efforts of the Confederacy to secure recognition as a member of the family many millions of dollars. These diplomatic papers remained in the original receptacles until about a year ago, when the quaint old trunks were sold at one of the treasury auctions. The papers had already been placed in three new chests of polished pine.

History of Confederate Seal.

Colonel Pickett was the latest known custodian of the great seal of the Confederate states. Of this seal, which never was used, many romantic stories are told. That it was destroyed at the close of the hostilities is untrue. In 1870, after having had its genuineness attested by its English manufacturers, Colonel Pickett ordered from a Washington jeweler many replicas of it in gold, silver and bronze, which were sold for the benefit of destitute southerners. One of these replicas is now in the National museum and another in the state department of the capital of South Carolina. The original was made in London at a cost of $122 10s. It was finished July 2, 1864, and did not reach Richmond until after the evacuation of that city. It is believed that Colonel Pickett's heirs are the only persons who know its whereabouts.

In a small dark room under the eaves of the south wing of the treasury stand seven large packing boxes with covers nailed down. Sightseers are never permitted to enter this dingy attic room, and very few persons, even among the oldest employees, could guess the contents of the boxes. They are filled with Confederate money, a portion of which was captured from southern banks and from dead or living Confederate soldiers and forwarded through the war department to the treasury. The larger share of this money was collected by the treasury agents who conducted the cotton business of the United States in 1864 and succeeding years.

These boxes contain not only the banknotes of the Confederate government, but thousands of the bills issued by the states in insurrection, to take the place of the "chips" which traders were compelled to offer as change after the south suspended specie payment in July, 1861. Later the issue of small bills by the various states rendered these "chips" unnecessary.

The Columbus Chautauqua Association held its annual meeting yesterday and elected the following officers: President, M. O. Reeves; vice president, Samuel Wertz; secretary, Tom Elrod; treasurer, E. E. Lindsay. The treasurer's annual report showed that the association lost $372 on this year's meeting, but the association has a reserve fund of $1,300. At the meeting some of the stockholders of the association entered strong protests against an excess of classical music on the program.

STARVING FAMILY FOUND IN LITTLE DESERTED CABIN

Father, Mother and Five Children Discovered by Settlers in Shanty in Mississippi.

By United Press.
Natchez, Miss., September 11.—Desperately ill from exposure and starvation after trudging 200 miles through alternate stretches of dusty, sun-scorched roads and flooded areas, Robert Powell, a lumber-camp worker, his wife, four small children and a grown daughter, the latter deserted by her husband, were discovered near death in an abandoned negro shanty on the outskirts of Natchez. Welfare workers are bringing them back to health, and recording their story for preservation. When they have recovered so that they may trudge again they probably will set forth once more on their wanderings in search of "their opportunity to toil."

Kind-hearted settlers living near the cabin discovered the Powell family all lying on the damp clay floor of the shack, which had been deserted even by the negro farm tenants. They gave them warm food and heard them recite their story in colorless, sing-song fashion. The Powells were too discouraged, their inspiration was too far gone for them to show intimation even in the narration of their sufferings and privation.

Powell, employed as a mill-hand, received $1.50 a day, a big wage for the Powell family and thousands of other such families in the South where negro labor is cheap. But he was "subject to the fortunes of the industry" and work therefore, was not steady. Sometimes he would present himself in the morning eager for work and after awaiting the pleasure of the foreman would be told there was "nothing doing" that day. At other times notices were posted and read aloud to him and his fellow-workers that work would be stopped for several days, even weeks. The Powells were unable to save money.

One day a notice was posted that the plant had been abandoned and that no further labor would be required. The Powells decided it were better to move and spar with starvation on the road than to stay where they were and face it as a certainty. They moved, carrying their few miserable possessions with them and taking turns at "toting" the youngest children, mere infants. All summer the search for work continued. Powell was weak and emaciated and obtained very little employment, but he managed to earn food for his road party as they went along. Then they reached Natchez and having had no work and consequently, no food for several days, they balked at nothing, not even the abandoned negro shanty, as a place to rest and fade into death.

Powell is working now but his employment is not steady and besides, he is only one of hundreds here in Natchez so no individual attention can be paid to his case after his family is lifted from its present plight.

Columbus, Ind., Sept. 11.—Alleging that he served the late John White, the last surviving veteran of the Mexican war in Bartholomew county, for nineteen years as "bound boy," Claude V. White has filed a claim for $4,000 against his foster father's estate. It is alleged the claimant was bound out to White by his mother in 1881.

THE DEED OF GIFT.

Archbishop Ireland tells the following story of a total abstinence pledge that had a fixed economic value:
"I was strolling on a summer evening along one of the streets in the upper town of St. Paul, Minnesota. The figure of a friend of mine was seen hammering a piece of wood in front of a newly built cottage. I approached with the salute: 'Well, Patrick, what are you doing here?' 'Industrious,' answered he, 'putting some last touches to this house of mine.' 'This house of yours?' I replied. 'Have you had the money to pay for this fine building?' 'Yes, indeed, this house is paid for and so is the next house, mine also; one to live in, the other to be rented to some neighbor. My wonder grew. 'Why, how is this, Patrick? I remember well when you had very little money.' 'So do I remember,' replied Patrick, 'but I have found the money. You, Father Ireland, gave it to me.' Still more did my wonder grow. 'Come inside,' continued Patrick, and in an instant, following his quick pace, I was upstairs in Patrick's bedroom. 'Look here,' he said, 'this is the deed of gift.' I looked. On the wall above the bed, nicely framed, was the document, 'I promise to abstain during my lifetime from all intoxicating drinks. Signed, Patrick —. Witnessed, John Ireland.' The mystery of the two houses, the property of Patrick, was explained. With gladness hand I saluted him; with warm heart I prayed for further success to the cause of total abstinence."

OF INTEREST TO MASONS.

The attention of the Masonic order has been called to the fact that the sale of liquor in hotels and saloons on Sunday is a Masonic crime. Following is the text of a letter sent by Attorney Joe Beatty Burt, chairman of the crime prevention committee of the Fraternal Education association to the various Masonic bodies in Chicago:
"Dear Friends and Brothers: Doubtless you have noticed in the daily press that the Chicago loop hotels (except the Blackstone and Great Northern) have formed a combination to violate the law of Illinois. The managers of some of these hotels are thirty-second degree Masons and belong to Oriental Consistory. Since the violation of state laws by a member of the Masonic fraternity is a Masonic crime, I am calling your attention to this open, brazen, and notorious offense of some of our ignorant and less informed brethren with the hope that they will overcome their own selfish blindness and correct an error of their ways. I am also informed that some of the Masonic lodges in Chicago are deriving profit from the lawlessness that prevails in our city. No doubt you will agree with me that the time is ripe, in Chicago at any rate, when the canning process should be applied to commercialized fraternity."

THE RED FLAG.

An engineer gave his little girl a small red flag to play with and explained that on the road the red flag signifies danger. "Would you stop your train if you saw a red flag on the track?" she asked. "Yes," he said, "or there might be an accident." After her papa had left, the little girl thought of what she might do to help, and at last she thought of the red flag, and what her papa had told her it stands for. Going to the sideboard, she firmly fastened the flag to the decanter, and then went to bed satisfied. The father came home, went to the sideboard for the usual nightcap, but saw the flag and understood and heeded the warning.

NOT LIQUID BREAD.

In a pamphlet entitled, "Alcohol and the Power of Resistance," distributed among the recruits of the German army, the following statement concerning beer is made:
"There is no justification for calling beer 'liquid bread'; a glass of heavy beer costing 25 pfennigs, has no more nourishment than a piece of cheese costing one pfennig. Almost all excesses and disturbances in the army are traced to drink. It is mostly beer that causes the mischief. Beer is not the harmless drink that it is supposed to be."

ENEMY IS RECOGNIZED.
Trying times have searched out the weaknesses caused by the demon rum and the evil that it does stands apparent. From the ignorant Villa in Mexico to the king of England, from the president of the French republic to the czar of all the Russias, men of intelligence and concern for their fellow man have recognized the enemy of a sound body and a good mind.—Chicago Tribune.

The public officials of Clarksburg, W. Va., are quoted by the Clarksburg Telegram as saying that but one-seventh as many arrests were made in the city during July, August, September and October under prohibition as were made during the corresponding months of last year. Three members of the police force have been cut off as a result of prohibition.

ACTION WILL BE TAKEN AGAINST OFFENDING AGENTS

Justice Department Plans Campaign Against Alleged Attempts to Cripple American Industries.

By United Press.
Washington, September 11.—A general "clean-up" of all German and Austrian agents who can be convicted of helping to cripple American industries has been decided upon by the government today. That the whole country will be combed for such offenders, was stated on high authority.

The state department was disposed through recall demands to rid the country of all offending diplomatic and consular representatives. Each of them, however, it was declared, is believed to have several agents working under him and the intention is for the justice department to prosecute them criminally.

FREETOWN BAND WILL GIVE CONCERT AT PARK SUNDAY

Organization Has Been Strengthened by Several New Pieces—Strong Program Promised.

A change has been made in the arrangements for the band concert at the city park Sunday afternoon and it is announced that the Freetown Band will give the entertainment instead of the Reddington Band. The Freetown Band has been strengthened by several new pieces, it is stated, and an unusually good program is anticipated. A large crowd is expected as this will be the first concert at the park since the chautauqua closed. The Reddington Band was to come last Sunday but the rain interfered.

The swimming pool, play ground and other amusements will be open Sunday. A free show will be staged tonight in connection with the merry-go-round which is proving very popular with the boys and girls of the city. A percentage of all receipts taken in by the merry-go-round are given to the park improvement fund. One day this week $4.50 was the amount placed in the fund from this source.

MUCH LIMESTONE BEING USED IN JACKSON COUNTY

Ten Cars Received This Week and It is Thought More Than Twenty Will Use During Fall.

More limestone is being used by the farmers in this county this year than ever before. It is doubtless due to the demonstrations that have been given under the direction of the county agent that have shown that limestone can be used to a good advantage for sweetening the soil and for many other purposes. Ten cars of limestone have been received in Jackson county this week, and it is thought a total of twenty or thirty will be received during the fall.

Quite a number of farmers have become interested in alfalfa this year and are sowing seed for the new fields. Alfalfa has not been generally grown in this county in the past, but the farmers believe that it is a profitable crop and it has been positively demonstrated that it can be grown with splendid results in all parts of the county.

In other words if none of the streets were improved more money would be spent on those getting the heaviest travel. At the time the flusher was purchased a number of merchants who were interviewed agreed to pay for the flushing the same as they had been paying for sprinkling provided the flusher would keep down the dust. However, the majority of such merchants made that proposition to prevent a further assessment upon the property owners, it is stated.

PERUNA THE RELIABLE FAMILY REMEDY

DIAMOND DUST.

The second game of the Austin Series will be played tomorrow afternoon at Schroer Park, and with favorable weather conditions, should attract a big crowd. Austin expects to bring up a much larger delegation than the one which came last week, when the morning rains made a game seem very improbable.

The local line up will be materially strengthened tomorrow by the presence of Darringer at short and More in the outfield. Bozzell will probably be shifted to second, as his all round work last Sunday proves him too valuable a man for bench work. Voyls will be in the box and at the rate he has been going should have but little trouble with the White Sox hitters.

James, the young star who was treated so unkindly last week by the locals will probably be on the mound for the visitors again, although some seem to think that Elwood Harper, who finished the first game, will be seen in the box. The Austin lineup will be practically the same as in the opening game.

The Red Sox will leave Monday for their three game series with the Sprudels at West Baden. They should be able to take two out of three from the crack colored aggregation. Voyls and Eckert, from Osgood, will do the pitching.

The West Baden series recalls the series played there by the Seymour Reds when the local team won the championship of Southern Indiana by defeating them, they being the only team able to turn the trick. West Baden fans fear the Red Sox on the strength of the reputation the old Reds established there some ten years ago.

The Ottos have no game scheduled for tomorrow, but will go to Scottsburg for a game on the 19th.

Columbus and Rushville will play tomorrow for the championship of "Eastern Indiana." Columbus will find herself up against a tough proposition. George Rohe, ex-Chicago White Sox Star, and hero of the 1906 world's series between the Sox and the Cubs at Chicago, is managing and playing first base for the Rushville team.

the defendant secured a favorable decision there. The company has asked that the case be transferred to the supreme court.

It is thought that the company would like to reach an agreement with the local attorneys so that no other cases would be filed until the questions are finally settled. Some of the cases would be barred from court under the statute of limitation unless they are filed within the next few months, but an agreement could be reached whereby such defendants would not lose their right to sue.

The company's attorneys indicated in their letter today that at least one of the cases would be carried to the United States supreme court. This will not be done, however, until the final decision has been given by the state supreme court. The questions involved in the suits are vital to the relief department and should the original opinion of the Indiana supreme court be sustained on rehearing and also by the United States Supreme court there is much doubt if the company could retain a part of the employees' wages as dues. Attorneys for the employees say that the by-laws compel the employees to become members of the relief department and that such compulsory membership is unconstitutional.

GOVERNMENT TO PUNISH ILLEGALLY ACTIVE AGENTS

Believed That Nearly 100 Are Attempting to Interfere With American Munition Plants.

Washington, September 11—The government is going to punish every man who has been illegally active in this country in the interest of any European belligerent nation according to officials of two different governmental departments. The number will be much larger than has been suggested hitherto. More than one hundred persons may be involved in it though this was only a semi-official estimate.

The administration frankly is muddled over the German-American submarine controversy. It was admitted that the state department did not know exactly what the latest German note on the Arabic incident meant. It was feared that there had been a material recession from the German pledge to conduct its submarine warfare in accordance with America's interpretation of international law.

CONSOLIDATION OF TWO SCHOOLS PROPOSED

Suggested that New Buildings be Erected for Walnut Grove and Conlogue.

The plan of consolidating the Walnut Grove and Conlogue schools in Redding township and erecting a new building at Sulphur Springs was placed before County Superintendent Payne today. The Walnut Grove school house was wrecked by the storm in July and a number of residents in Redding township filed a petition asking that the new building be erected at Sulphur Springs.

A remonstrance was filed to the proposed change of location. Before any action could be taken, however, the matter had to be presented to the county superintendent. The conference today was informal and the general situation was discussed. Edward P. Elsner represented the petitioners. Others attending the conference were William Kruge, James Montgomery, George Montgomery and Ernest Heideman, all residents of Redding township.

It has been suggested that a small tract of land be purchased on Al Brown's farm, at Sulphur Springs, as the location for the new school house. It is argued that this location is in the central portion of the districts should the two be consolidated. There is some opposition to the plan, it is known, by those who live some distance from the proposed new location.

The matter was taken under advisement by the county superintendent and no decision will be given for several days. Pending a decision the children who formerly attended the Walnut Grove school will be hauled to the Rockford school. The new building cannot be erected for several weeks at the earliest but the pupils will be able to begin the term at the Rockford school at the usual time. The plan of the petitioners calls for a school of two rooms in case the consolidation is ordered.

SEYMOUR FAVORITES TO APPEAR AT 1916 CHAUTAUQUA

Hruby Bohemian Orchestra and Judge Alden Are Booked For Next Annual Assembly.

Two favorite attractions with Seymour chautauqua audiences were added to the program for the 1916 assembly at a meeting of the directors held last evening. They are the Hruby Bohemian Orchestra, which made such a hit with audiences at the chautauqua this year, and Hon. George D. Alden, of Massachusetts, who was one of the headliners at the first chautauqua, and whose two masterful lectures are still remembered by everyone who heard them. Although the representative of the Coit bureau, which books both of these numbers, was unable to be here for the meeting last evening, Secretary Davis received a telegram from the bureau that the two dates would be held for Seymour.

This leaves only two other numbers to be secured, when the program will be completed, and these will be booked within the next few days. The program so far gives every promise of being up to the high standard already established, and patrons may rest assured that the 1916 chautauqua will bring the strongest talent available to the city.

Practically all of the bills against the assembly have been received and settled, and it now seems certain that there will be no deficit. The financial statement will be completed shortly and will be published as soon as it is ready.

tion and is offering suggestions in the hope of checking the disease from spreading. He has visited many of the infected farms and advises that the sick hogs be quarantined and that vaccination be adopted as a preventive means.

The county agent has arranged for two meetings this week when the situation will be discussed and methods of vaccination will be demonstrated. One meeting will be held at Tampico and another in the vicinity of the Wegan church. He will be assisted by Dr. L. C. Kigin, of the state veterinarian's office who will make the demonstrations. The various kinds of serum will also be discussed. It is planned to hold a round table discussion after the demonstration.

Because of the wide interest in the county in the cholera situation it is believed the meetings will be well attended and that suggestions will be given that will be valuable in coping with the situation.

ADVISES FARMERS TO SOW NO WHEAT BEFORE OCT. 15

County Agent Says Damage From Hessian Fly is More Apt to Occur Before That Date.

In order to reduce the possibility of damage from the Hessian fly this fall, County Agent A. D. Cobb advises that no wheat be sown in Jackson county before October 5. The wheat experts declare that late sown wheat had more chance of escaping damage from the little insect which has proved a costly pest to Jackson county farmers during the last year. In some sections entire fields were laid waste and the harvest in others was the smallest in years. However, as a general rule the late sown wheat last fall was fairly good, according to reports.

Mr. Cobb said the weather was not interfering with the plowing to any considerable extent. In some places, he said, the ground could stand more moisture. As a whole the soil throughout the county was working fairly well, he declared.

"house," and that he was therefore, unable to sustain the charge against the defendant.

Virgil Clark and Edward Gardner, who had told the police they had seen the defendants taking part in the game, were put on the stand, but denied having seen them at all. Deputy Prosecutor Montgomery, who had intended dismissing the charges against the two boys on their promise to turn state's evidence, allowed the charges to stand and the boys' action cost them $15 each.

The decision given by Judge Abel is important, and if followed as a precedent, will make it hard to convict those caught "looking on" at out of door games. Nevertheless, according to Chief McCord, this decision will not deter the department from making every effort to break up all gaming.

Mariah Bentley, who is a familiar figure around the police station, imbibed too much bottled good cheer last evening and started out to celebrate. Mariah believes that celebrations, like charity, should begin at home, and accordingly opened up her program on the home grounds. Before the game had proceeded far, however, Mariah's mother-in-law, acting as chief arbitrator, decided that Mariah, who had been vainly endeavoring to locate the plate with various missiles, was in no condition to be pitching, and called the police to escort her off the field. Mariah's exhibition cost her $20 and costs in police court this morning, and she has been spending the day trying to make arrangements to have her fine stayed.

DR. DUMBA MAY HAVE COMPANY

AWAIT MORE INFORMATION

Capt. von Papen, Attache to the German Embassy, and Consul General Nuber Are Mentioned—Investigation Into Matter Not Ended.

Washington, Sept. 11.—The recall of Captain Franz von Papen military attache of the German embassy and proceedings on the charge of conspiracy against Consul General Nuber, at New York and the editor of the Hungarian newspaper Szabad-sag, are consequences which may follow the American act in requesting the recall of Dr. Constantin Dumba, the Austro-Hungarian ambassador to the United States.

Through the editor and the consul general are subject to state or federal proceedings on charges of conspiracy. It is understood that when the document in question is received, it will be turned over to the department of justice.

Captain Von Papen, the military attache of the German embassy, is brought into the situation in two ways. He is referred to by Dr. Dumba, in his letter as having represented to him that it was of great importance to tie up the Bethlehem Steel and other plants in connection with the plan in question. He is also brought into the case by virtue of the fact that he is understood to have entrusted letters and other papers to Captain J. F. J. Archibald, from whom the ambassador's letter was taken by the British.

It is also reported, however, and in part substantiated by press dispatches quoting alleged portions of von Papen's letters, that the papers he gave Archibald contained most disrespectful references to the administration at Washington. If this is the case, there is little doubt that the captain will be held strictly to account for his words.

It was strongly indicated here that the administration is determined that, having charged Dr. Dumba with conspiring to disrupt American industry, action equally vigorous shall be taken against those associated with him.

As a matter of fact, there is good reason to believe that the administration would be gratified if Captain von Papen, decided, or if Ambassador von Bernshoff decided for him, to take a vacation. It is understood that the departure would be welcomed as relieving this government of another disagreeable duty.

Despite the fact that in official quarters the friendly character of the American note to Vienna was pointed to as proof that no unpleasantness would result, it was no secret that considerable anxiety existed among officials as to the correctness of the United States' step. There is much anxiety to learn what reception the Vienna foreign office gave the note requesting Dr. Dumba's recall, and what action, if any, they indicated they would take.

Confidence is expressed here that the Austro-Hungarian government will promptly acquiesce in the expressed wish of the United States and recall Dr. Dumba. It was admitted that it is quite possible that the Vienna government may retaliate by handing Ambassador Penfield his passports. In fact it was learned from definite reports that this is to be the intention of the Austro-Hungarian government.

In official quarters, however, this prediction of the course of the Vienna government was deprecated as more alarming and pessimistic than the situation would warrant.

Should the Vienna government hand Mr. Penfield his passports or ask for his recall, the state department will consider, it was stated that there was no alternative before this government but to acquiesce.

Should Ambassador Penfield's recall be asked for, or should he be summarily dismissed, in retaliation, the United States will acquiesce, but will take the act as proof positive that Austria-Hungary no longer wishes to preserve friendly relations with the United States. No one here believes that such is the case. On the contrary, attention is called to the fact that Austria-Hungary is not even a free agent in the situation; that her friends and her enemies also are chosen for her in Berlin during the present situation.

PAROLES ARE AUTHORIZED

Jeffersonville, Ind., Sept. 11.—Twenty-three paroles from the Indiana reformatory were authorized at the September meeting of the board of trustees. Harry Smedley, sent from Tippecanoe county for arson, May 29, 1914, was released on parole granted by Governor Ralston. There have been five arrivals this week, the first for nearly three weeks. The population has, however, fallen only a dozen or so below the maximum of 1,250 recorded in the spring.

GREECE HOLDS UP DECISION

Possible Participation in the War Will Not Be Known For Present.

Athens, Sept. 11.—Greece's decision as to her possible participation in the war on the side of the allies will not be known until the conferences begun between King Constantine and his Premier, M. Venizelos, have come to a close. These conferences are expected to take up considerable time.

It is generally recognized that the anti-war party has been strengthened by the recent Russian reverses which have demoralized to a considerable extent the allies strength. Some irritation has been caused by the spread of the theory that the allies are endeavoring to influence Greece unduly to make concessions to Bulgaria. On the other hand, reports of ill-treatment of Greeks in Turkey have resulted in some bitterness against the ports and subsequently the central powers.

The crux of the situation in Greece appears to be the fear that Bulgaria may be strengthened through the present conflict.

CHILD IS CHAINED IN YARD

Parents Admit Brutal Beating of Their Small Boy.

Elwood, Ind., Sept. 11.—When police were called to the home of Clyde Haskett by reports that Harry Haskett, age ten, had been severely beaten, they found the boy chained in the yard, his body and limbs a mass of welts and bruises as the result of being whipped by the father. The mother had twisted a dog chain about the boy's neck. Marks of the chain links were in the flesh. The police had to force her to unlock a padlock with which the chain was fastened, before the boy could be released.

In court the parents admitted having lost their tempers and whipped the boy unreasonably after he had tried to run away from home. Jail sentences against both were suspended when they promised in court not to whip the boy again.

WOMAN JABS TWO MASHERS

Stabs Them With Hatpin When They Become Attentive.

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 11.—Long hatpins in the hands of a pretty woman are effective in putting mashers to flight. This was demonstrated here when Mrs. Oscar Hennett turned on Jeremiah Archibald and Frank Noble, jabbing both of the men in the arms and legs as she pursued them through the business district.

"They insulted me," Mrs. Bennett said. "When the police fail to stop this everlasting habit of young men accosting women when they are in the shopping district, we must use our own method of defense."

The men were later arrested and each was fined $30 in the city court.

PUBLIC UTILITY LAW TEST

Fight Logansport Home Telephone Company Rate Increase.

Logansport, Ind., Sept. 11.—M. Winfield, in the Case circuit court, filed a complaint to test the validity of the action of the public service commission of Indiana, in granting the Logansport Home Telephone company an increase in rates. The complaint seeks to enjoin the commission from granting any rate higher than the maximum fixed in the franchise granted the telephone company. The suit is really a test of the public utility law.

MORE EFFICIENT COAST DEFENSES IS CRYING NEED OF UNITED STATES

Definite System Now Being Worked Out by the Coast Artillery Corps and Others.

To Better Man and Arm Fortifications and Improve the Land Support of Forts.

ONE of the first acts of President Wilson if this country is called upon to prepare itself to meet the possible attack of a first class power will be to bring the coast artillery arm of the national defense up to the very top notch of efficiency. As a matter of fact, this work is already under way, and all one has to do in order to realize that this is so is to read the reports of the chief of the coast artillery corps and those of special boards and others to whom is entrusted the working out of a definite and reliable system of defense for America's long seacoast lines, the plans embodying not only the manning and armament of the great fortifications, but also the land supports of those fortifications, says the New York Times.

The policy of the war department has since 1909 been to man fully all great ports could be mined within twenty-four hours after the declaration of war. The scheme of mine defense has been carefully worked out for nearly all the great seaports, and those which have yet to be included within the approved plan of mine defense will shortly be provided for. It can be stated without violating any confidence that among the cities the mine defenses of which are already worked out and ready to be placed in operation are those of Portland, Me.; Portsmouth, N. H.; Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Norfolk, Charleston, New Orleans, San Francisco and Seattle.

How Guns Are Manned.

Now a word as to the proper manning of the great guns and mortars that form the backbone of the coast defense of this country. As already stated, the hope of the war department has been to half man these guns and mortars with regulars and to depend upon the national guard coast artillery organizations for the personnel that would be required to bring the manning of them up to the maximum strength needed. But the hopes of the war department have not been realized in either instance, and the national guard, instead of being able to furnish the one-half personnel expected of it, cannot even furnish one-fourth the quota desired.

There are in the coast artillery detachments a few positions that could be filled by men with little training, such as for instance, ammunition detachments, the details of which the ordinary citizen could master in a few operations. The re-enforcing of the troops in the Philippines and Hawaii would be practically impossible, while the re-enforcing of the troops in Panama would be at least a most difficult problem to solve.

As for the mine defenses, which it can be stated are now in good condition, every mine company in the coast artillery corps must be maintained at its maximum strength. No half manning is possible here, for the training of men for this most important of defensive works is a most difficult task and one that takes time. These men must know all about explosives and how to handle them. They must know all about the laying of submarine cables, and it is absolutely essential that they shall be able to maintain and to operate an electrical system that is

GERMANS OPEN NEW OFFENSIVE

Throw Forces Against Kieff and Odessa.

SOME GAINS ARE NOTED

Petrograd Announces Kieff is Being Partially Evacuated—Teutons Concentrate Heavy Forces on the Roumanian Frontier.

London, Sept. 11.—The main goal of the southern Austro-German armies, according to reports from the Russian theater of war, is now Kieff, the fortified city of European Russia, on the right bank of the Dnieper and Odessa, the big Russian port on the Black Sea.

In their efforts to gain the road for the former point, the Teutons are furiously attacking the Russian defenders. Some gain in this direction was made, according to the official Austrian statement, by the forcing of the Russians over the Studel lowland.

A dispatch from Petrograd announced that Kieff is being partially evacuated, though it is emphasized that this step is merely a precautionary measure and that it would be "premature" to consider the Kieff-Dnieper line endangered. The removal of a number of institutions has begun, however, with a view to facilitating military operations in case the city should be seriously threatened.

More difficult by far than the expected drive on Kieff is the movement which is predicted as the result of the concentration of Austrian forces on the Roumanian frontier, presumably with a view to undertaking serious operations against Bessarabia. A dispatch from Petrograd quotes Russian officials as foreshadowing such a move, with Odessa as the ultimate objective. However, owing to the lack of adequate railroad facilities, the natural difficulty of the territory and the distance to be covered, military observers are skeptical as to any immediate progress of these prospective operations. They also point to the danger to the Austro-German forces here, which is reported by a possibility of the eventual entry of Roumania into the war, in which event the Roumanians would be expected to attack the Teutons from the south.

To the northwest of Rovno, which forms one of the "corners" of the Volhynian fortress triangle, the German forces which took Brest-Litovsk are pushing eastward to the railroad point of Sarny, the capture of which would give them the starting point on the railroad to Kieff, about two hundred miles eastward. Owing to the marshy nature of this region, however, fighting is extremely difficult and the program proportionally slow.

Meanwhile the fighting in Galicia continues with undiminished stubbornness. Apparently, the Austro-Germans have not yet recovered from the blow the Russians struck at them the very day the czar took the chief command of his armies. The Austrian statement speaks of Russian reinforcements which shows that the Slavs, in possession of fair communications and completely intact, are determined to defend the strip of Galicia they still hold to the last.

The following official communication was issued by the French war office:

"A violent cannonade is reported in Belgium, in the region of Nieuport and Steenstraete, around Arras in France, in front of Roye and in Champagne from Auberville to Souain. In the Argonne the enemy bombarded with heavy shells the gully of the Fontaine-aux-Charmes and directed on the road from LaHarazee to St. Hubert a tentative attack, which was stopped promptly.

"To the north of Flirey and in the region of St. Die some artillery actions are reported.

"The Germans launched a very violent attack against Hartmanns-Wellerkopf, but it was repulsed completely.

AMAZING PLOTS REVEALED

Dumba's Work Brought to Light at Detroit and Toledo.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 11.—An amazing series of conditions and circumstances have been revealed in investigations which have been quietly conducted during the past few weeks into Detroit's industrial condition and also that of the middle west, showing the activities of discredited Austro-Hungarian ambassador, Dr. Constantin Dumba and his agents.

Cleveland and Detroit, it appears, have been centers in the past four months of his agents, both secret and avowed of an intricate campaign of secession from industrial ranks directed toward 50,000 Austria-Hungarians, employed in the various factories in Detroit—the automobile plants, foundries and machine shops which have to do with war munitions.

As a result of these investigations the spotlight is upon many persons whose activities hitherto have been deemed only quasi-important in the mass of plot and counter plot, which has marked the foes of the allies in their efforts to embarrass munitions makers in the cities of Detroit, Toledo, Cleveland, Flint and other important industrial centers.

MORTARS AT FORT TOTEN AND A BIG COAST DEFENSE GUN AT FORT MONROE.

fortifications in Hawaii, the Philippines and the Panama canal zone, as well as mine defense areas regardless of whether those mine areas are in the continental United States, in the insular possessions or canal zone. Furthermore, it has been the desire of the war department to provide a regular army personnel for the coast artillery sufficient to half man the employed guns and mortars in the United States proper and to develop the coast defense organizations of the national guard until the guard is able to furnish the men necessary to furnish the remaining one-half of the needed personnel.

Armament at Minimum.

At the present moment the armament of the insular coast defenses is the absolute minimum that is necessary. That the armament should be further increased until guns are employed that will have range sufficient to hold in check at long distance any attacking fleet that may be brought against them is the opinion of coast artillery experts of the army.

In these defenses the manning complements, unlike the case in the United States proper, must be maintained at their maximum, for it is an undoubted and accepted fact that in the event of war the re-enforcement of the troops at any of these fortifications complicated and demands a thorough knowledge of electricity on the part of those responsible for its operation.

Submarine Mines Necessary.

In the protection of New York, Boston, Norfolk, New Orleans, San Francisco and our other great ports, both at home and in our insular possessions, the war function of the submarine mine is one the importance of which cannot be overestimated. On stormy nights and during fogs the mine is more than any other instrument of modern warfare responsible for the defense of these great ports.

And when war does come the mine companies cannot be increased with volunteers, since experience has shown beyond all doubt that the mine planting and mine operating soldier must undergo a long and thorough course of training under the most expert of tutors, and further, that in this branch of the service, perhaps more than any other, the necessity of team work is great. It is entirely out of the question to expect to get militiamen or volunteers who will be of any use in this important branch of our scheme of national defense.

Fortunately for the country, the mine companies of the coast artillery are as efficient as any units of their kind in any army in the world, and in the event of war the harbors of all our days. But for every position for which men could be quickly trained there are a dozen others where the training must necessarily be of extended nature and where, if the soldier is to be rated as efficient, his training must be as thorough as the most expert of coast artillery and ordnance officers can make it. Such positions as these are those of battery commanders, officers to whom will be intrusted the all important task of handling the range finding apparatus and determining the positions of the enemy, gun pointers, officers as well as enlisted men, who will be concerned in the range correcting, range setting and range finding work which is as difficult as it is scientific.

Cannoneers Must Be Trained.

Likewise the cannoneers must be trained, not here and there, but at the points where the batteries they are to handle are employed. As the railroad engineer knows his engine, so must the cannoneer know his gun or mortar. If he is to render the service his country should expect of him in the event of a national crisis.

Under the present scheme the annual report of the chief of coast artillery shows the gun defense of this country is supposed to include 1,300 officers and 38,051 enlisted men. These figures indicate what we need, not what we have by any means.

CHAPTER VII.

Still Piecing Out the World.

The map of the United States in Edward E. Allison's library began, now, to develop little streaks, but they were boldly marked, and they hugged, with extraordinary closeness, the pencil mark which Allison had drawn from New York to Chicago and from Chicago to San Francisco. There were long gaps between them, but these did not seem to worry him very much. It was the little streaks, sometimes scarcely over an inch, which he drew with such evident pleasure from day to day, and now, occasionally, as he passed in and out, he stopped by the big globe and gave it a contemplative whirl. On the day he joined his far western group of little marks by bridging three small gaps, he received a caller in the person of a short, well-dressed old man, who walked with a cane and looked half asleep, by reason of the many puffs which had piled up under his eyes and nearly closed them.

"I'm ready to wind up, Tim," remarked Allison, offering his caller a cigar, and lighting one himself. "When can we have that Vedder Court property condemned?"

"Whenever you give the word," reported Tim Corman, who spoke with an asthmatic voice, and with the quiet dignity of a man who had borne grave business responsibilities, and had borne them well.

Allison nodded his head in satisfaction.

"You're sure there can't be any hitch in it?"

"Not if I say it's all right," and the words were Tim's only reproof. His tone was perfectly level, and there was no glint in his eyes. Offended dignity had nothing to do with business. "Give me one week's notice, and the Vedder Court property will be condemned for the city terminal of the Municipal Transportation company. Appraisal, thirty-one million."

"I only wanted to be reassured," apologized Allison. "I took your word that you could swing it when I made my own gamble, but now I have to drag other people into it."

"That's right," agreed Tim. "I never get offended over straight business." In other times Tim Corman would have said "get sore," but, as he neared the end of his years of useful activity, he was making quite a specialty of refinement, and stocking a picture gallery, and becoming a con-noisseur collector of rare old jewels. He dressed three times a day.

"How about the Crescent island subway?"

"Ripe any time," and Tim Corman flicked the ashes from his cigar with a heavily gemmed hand. "The boosters have been working on it right along, but never too strong."

"There's no need for any particular manipulation in that," decided Allison, who knew the traction situation to the last nickel. "The city needs that outlet, and it needs the new territory which will be opened up. I think we'd better push the subway right on across to the mainland. The extension would have to be made in ten years anyhow."

"It's better right now," immediately assented Corman. In ten years he might be dead.

"I think, too, that we'd better provide for a heavy future expansion," went on Allison, glancing expectantly into Tim's old eyes. "We'd probably better provide for a double-deck, eight-track tube."

Tim Corman drew a wheezy breath, and then he grinned the senile shadow of his old-time grin; but it still had the same spirit.

"You got a hen on," he decided. In "society," Tim could manage very nicely to use fashionable language, but in business he found it impossible after the third or fourth minute of conversation. He had taken in every detail of the room on his entrance, and his glance had strayed more than once to the red streaks on the big map. Now he approached it, and studied it with absorbed interest. "You're a smart boy, Ed," he concluded. "Across Crescent island is the only leak you could snake in a railroad. You found the only crack that the big systems haven't tied up."

"All you can get me to admit, just now, is that the city needs an eight-track tube across Crescent island, under lease to the Municipal Transportation company," stated Allison, smiling with gratification. A compliment of this sort from shrewd old Tim Corman, who was reputed to be the foxiest man in the world, was a tribute highly flattering.

"That's right," approved Tim. "All I know is a guess, and I don't tell guesses. This is a big job, though, Eddie. A subway to Crescent island, under proper restrictions, is just an ordinary year's work for the boys, but this tube pokes its nose into Oakland

"I'm quite aware of the size of the job," chuckled Allison. "However, Tim, there'll be money enough behind this proposition to fill that tube with greenbacks."

Between the narrow-slitted and puffy eyelids of Tim Corman there gleamed a trace of the old-time genial. "Then it's built," he rose and leaned on his cane, twinkling down on the man whom, years before, he had picked as a "comer." "I've heard people say that money's wicked, but they never had any. When I die, and go down to the big ferry, if the Old Boy comes along and offers me enough money, I'll go to hell."

Still laughing, Allison telephoned to the offices of the Midcontinent railroad, and dashed out to his runabout just in time to see Tim Corman driving around the corner in his liveried landau. He found in President Urbank of the Midcontinent, a spare man who had worn three vertical creases in his brow over one thwarted ambition. His rich but sprawling railroad system ran fairly straight after it was well started for Chicago, and fairly straight from that way point until it became drunken with the monotony of the western foothills, where it gangled and angled its way to the far south and around up the Pacific coast, arriving there dusty and rattling, after a thousand-mile detour from its course—but that road had no direct entrance into New York city. It approached from the north, and was compelled to circle completely around, over hired tracks, to gain a ferryboat entrance. Passengers injured to coming in over the Midcontinent, which was a well-equipped road otherwise, counted but half their journey done when they came in sight of New York, no matter from what distance they had come.

"Out marketing for railroads today, Gil?" suggested Allison.

"I don't know," smiled Urbank. "I might look at a few."

"Here they are," and Allison tossed him a memorandum slip.

Urbank glanced at the slip, then he looked up at Allison in perplexity. He had a funny forward angle to his neck when he was interested, and the creases in his brow were deepened until they looked like cuts.

"I thought you were joking, and I'm still charitable enough to think so. What's all this junk?"

"Little remnants and job lots of railroads I've been picking up," and Allison drew forward his chair. "Some I bought outright, and in some I hold control."

"If you're serious about interesting the Midcontinent in any of this property, we don't need to waste much time," Urbank leaned back and held his knee. "There are only two of these roads approach the Midcontinent system at any point, and they are useless property so far as we are concerned; the L. and C., in the East, and the Silverknob and Nugget City, in the west, which touches our White Range branch at its southern terminus. We couldn't do anything with those."

"You landed on the best ones right away," smiled Allison. "However, I don't propose to sell these to the Midcontinent. I propose to absorb the Midcontinent with them."

Urbank suddenly remembered Allison's traction history, and leaned forward to look at the job lots and remnants again.

"This list isn't complete," he judged, and turned to Allison with a serious question in his eye.

"Almost," and Allison hitched a little closer to the desk. "There remains an aggregate of three hundred and twenty miles of road to be built in four short stretches. In addition to this, I have a twenty-year contract over a hundred-mile stretch of the Inland Pacific, a track right entry into San Francisco, and this," he displayed to Urbank a preliminary copy of an ordinance, authorizing the immediate building of an eight-track tube through Crescent island to the mainland. "Possibly you can understand this whole project better if I show you a map," and he spread out his little pocket sketch.

If it had been possible to reverse the process of time and worry and wearing concentration, President Urbank of the Midcontinent would have risen from his inspection of that map with a brow as smooth as a baby's. Instead, his lips went dry, as he craned forward his neck at that funny angle, and projected his chin with the foolish motion of a goose.

"A direct entrance right slam into the center of New York!" he exclaimed, cracking all his knuckles violently one by one. "Vedder court! Where's that?"

"That's the best part of the joke," exulted Allison, with no thought that Vedder court was, at this present moment, church property. "It's just where you said—right slam in the center of New York; and the building into which the Midcontinent will run its trains will be also the terminal building of every municipal transportation line in Manhattan! From my station platforms passengers from Chicago or the far West will step directly into subway, L., or trolley. When they come in over the line which is now the Midcontinent, they will be landed, not across the river, or in some side street, but right at their own doors, scattering from the Midcontinent terminal over a hundred traction lines!" His voice, which had begun in the mild banter of a man passing an idle joke, had risen to a ring so triumphant that he was almost shouting.

"But—but—wait a minute!" Urbank protested. He was stuttering. "Where does the Midcontinent get to the Crescent island tube?"

"Right here," and Allison pointed to his map. "You come out of the tube to the L. and C., which has a long-time tracking privilege over fifty miles of the Towando Valley, and terminates at Windfield. At Forgeson, however, just ten miles after the L. and C. leaves the Towando, that road—"

"Is crossed by our tracks!" Urbank eagerly interpreted. "The Midcontinent, after its direct exit, saves a seventy-mile detour! Then it's a straight shoot for Chicago! Straight on again out west—Why, Allison, your route is almost as straight as an arrow! It will have a three-hundred-mile shorter haul than even the Inland Pacific! You'll put that road out of the business! You'll have the king of transcontinental lines, and none can ever be built that will save one kink!" His neck protruded still further from his collar as he bent over the map. "Here you split off from the Midcontinent's main line and utilize the White Range branch; from Silverknob—My God!" and his mouth dropped open. "Why—why—why, you cross the big range over the Inland Pacific's own tracks!" and his voice cracked.

Edward E. Allison, his vanity gratified to its very core, sat back comfortably, smiling and smoking, until Urbank awoke.

"I suppose we can come to some arrangement," he mildly suggested.

Urbank looked at him still in a daze for a moment, and a trace of the creases came back into his brow, then they faded away.

"You figured all this out before you came to me," he remarked. "On what terms do we get in?"

WILL NOT JOIN PEACE PLANS

Carranza Turns Down Pan-American Project.

SENDS REPLY TO DIPLOMATS

Mexican "First Chief" Decline Invitation of Latin-American Countries and the United States to Enter Peace Conference.

Vera Cruz, Sept. 11.—The "first chief" of the Constitutionalist party, General Venustiano Carranza declines to acquiesce in the invitation of the diplomatic representatives of the United States and the Latin-American countries that he join the leaders of the various factions in Mexico in an endeavor to bring about peace.

The reply of General Carranza, which was handed to John R. Silliman, President Wilson's representative in Mexico, follows:

"Messrs. Ministers: Having informed General Venustiano Carranza, the 'first chief' of the Constitutionalist army in charge of the executive power of the union, of your note, which you signed in your official capacities and addressed to him under date of Aug. 15 last, inviting him to a conference with the chiefs of the rebel party to consider the Mexican situation and re-establish peace, I have seen fit to address your excellencies as, in fact, I have the honor to do, to inform you in the name of the 'first chief' of the Constitutionalist army in charge of the executive power of the republic, that he cannot consent that the interior affairs of the republic be handled by mediation, or by any initiative of any foreign government, inasmuch as all have the right to respect the inalienable right of the sovereignty of nations and since, on the acceptance of the invitation of your excellencies, addressed to him, to attend a conference with the chiefs of the rebel factions with a view of returning peace to Mexico, he would impair profoundly the independence of the republic and would establish the precedent of foreign interference in the determination of its interior, this consideration alone sufficing in prohibiting our government from participating in the legitimate defense of the sovereignty of the people of Mexico.

"For this basic reason and others which I do not wish to pass without mention, in order to produce in your minds the intimate conviction that the conduct of the 'first chief' of the Constitutionalist army in charge of the executive power of the nation in this attitude is inspired solely by the highest duties imposed upon him by his elevated trust.

"I am sure that your excellencies do not doubt that Mexico is at present in the throes of a revolution in which it is proposed to wipe out the last vestige of the colonial epoch, as well as all the errors and abuses of past administrations and realize the noble aspirations for the welfare and the betterment of the Mexican people.

"On the other hand, your excellencies have been able to observe from the answers received to your note from the military chiefs and civil subordinates of the first captivity that the 'first chief' is the only authority that could decide, and who, in fact, does decide matters submitted to the consideration of the former, who, with their replies, have given an eloquent example of their discipline and solidarity, at the same time giving evidence that the 'first chief' has known how to preserve unity within the Constitutionalist government, notwithstanding the prolongation of the strife and in spite of the ignoble and repeated intrigues of our enemies for the relaxation of discipline in the Constitutionalist army and their attempts to corrupt its principal chiefs.

"The 'first chief' therefore, bears the immediate responsibility of the realization of the national ambition and he cannot by means of any agreement with an outside force, whatever may be their good intentions toward our country."

LINCOLN WILL BE RETURNED

Self-Confessed German Spy Must Face Trial in England.

New York, Sept. 11.—Judge Van Vechten Veeder, of the United States district court, Brooklyn, has decided that Ignatius T. T. Lincoln, self-confessed German spy and former member of parliament, must go back to England to stand trial on the charge of forgery. He then committed Lincoln to the Raymond street jail, pending final action by the secretary of state.

Lincoln, through his lawyers, stoutly maintained that the forgery charge was a "frame up" and that if he is sent back to England, he will be shot as a spy.

TIP TO SHERIFF MAY SOLVE MURDER CASE

Witness Said to Have Seen Wood With Victim.

Kokomo, Ind., Sept. 11.—It is now reported that Sheriff Brown of Howard county and Sheriff Stanley of Cass county believe that Walter Collins, an Ervin township boy, was killed in Howard county, near Young America. It is probable that upon the convening of the Howard circuit court for its September term, the jury will set to work to investigate the case.

Ellis Wood, a wealthy farmer, is held in the Cass county jail upon a charge of murder. A tip was given Sheriff Brown that, it is believed, will bring forward the most important witness yet found.

The officers have been embarrassed in their efforts to fasten the crime on Wood by the fact that they were unable to find any person who would testify to having seen Collins with Wood in the latter's automobile the evening the crime was committed. Now Sheriff Brown has been given the name of a man in Young America, who, it is said, will testify that he saw Collins and Wood together in the automobile shortly after 8 o'clock that evening and spoke to them.

Wood was in Young America and in the vestibule of the church when services closed in the evening. There are several persons who know he was in the village at the hour the services began.

The question is: Would it have been possible for him to leave Young America with Collins after church was called, drive with him to a point near the Howard-Carroll-Cass county junction, kill him and then return to Young America in time to be in the church when the services were concluded?

Sheriff Brown is convinced that this would have been possible. The sheriff and other persons drove from the church in Young America to the point where Collins's body was found in four and one-half minutes.

Now Growing Colored Cotton.

Savannah, Ga., Sept. 11.—The cotton growers of the south have found a possible way of eliminating German dyestuffs in their application to their products. They are growing colored cotton in the south. At the cotton exchange here there was exhibited a specimen of the colored product, which was grown on a south Carolina plantation.

Biliousness and Constipation.

It is certainly surprising that any woman will endure the miserable feeling caused by biliousness and constipation, when relief is so easily had and at so little expense. Mrs. Chas. Peck, Gates, N. ### SOCIAL EVENTS.

FOSTER REUNION.

The first annual reunion of the descendants of Hiram and Polly Trumbo Foster and their brothers and sisters was held at the grove surrounding the Beech School House, in Vernon township, today. The members of the family began to arrive early, many coming in automobiles. A committee met each traction car with conveyances.

About 175 were present during the afternoon and heard the address by Congressman Lincoln Dixon, of North Vernon. The family history was to be read by Hiram Foster, of Deputy. Each guest registered. A permanent organization was to be effected after the close of the program. At noon about 150 persons enjoyed the elegant dinner that was prepared.

Quite a number from this city were present as were members of the family who live in other parts of the county. The out-of-town guests who were registered were:

A. Nicholas Smith and Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Hunter and Mrs. Laura L. Smith, of Terre Haute; Edward H. Smith, of Vincennes; Lincoln Dixon and family, North Vernon; Mr. and Mrs. A. M. ed corruption in which he declared Bell's hand could be seen. When Attorney Ryan interrupted to ask for facts instead of generalities, Deputy Prosecutor Roach replied that Rucker was giving facts and that the state will prove everyone of them.

"In one precinct a Bell candidate at the primaries received eleven more Democratic votes than were registered, even though he was opposed by the Democrats," said Rucker. "Although thirty-six justices of peace were candidates at the primaries, in one precinct only four of these received votes, and they were Bell men. That could only happen by a miracle.

"Some of the tally sheets were made to order," he said. "It can be seen where names were rubbed out and others substituted. We will have witnesses to prove that in one precinct, out of 190 names, one-third of them are fictitious.

"Terre Haute nor any other city has such a rotten precinct as the fourth of the fifth ward. It is so rotten that it stinks when you pick up the returns."

Rucker referred to Frank O'Brien, the candidate for juvenile court judge, who withdrew under fire before the election, as "the unspeakable who knew no law."

WILLIE'S MARKING BRUSH TRANSFORMED INTO AN INK FOUNTAIN

DEAR TOMMY: We're back home again, and business is rushing at the store. I invented this marking pot to help the shipping clerk, who is rushed to death. He was just getting the hang of it, when papa put all the spare weights on top of the plunger, and the two of them got covered with ink!

Yours, etc., WILLIE.

MRS. SOURGRAPE OVERCOMES HER SCRUPLES ABOUT BRIDGE

BRIDGE! NOTHING BUT GAMBLING! THE WAY THOSE WOMEN QUARREL AND FIGHT FOR PRIZES IS POSITIVELY A DISGRACE!

I JUST SAW MRS. GAMBLE! SHE IS GIVING HER BRIDGE THIS AFTERNOON

THEY HAVE VERY LITTLE TO DO PLAYING CARDS FOR PRIZES! I THINK IT'S AWFUL, WE'LL GO CALLING MRS. NEIGHBORLY!

ONE OF THE LADIES CAN'T COME TO THE CLUB THIS AFTERNOON AND MOTHER WANTS TO KNOW IF YOU WILL TAKE HER PLACE!

OH DEARIE, GIVE MOTHER MY LOVE AND TELL HER I WILL BE MORE THAN DELIGHTED

OH MRS. NEIGHBORLY, I CAN'T POSSIBLY GO CALLING TO-DAY I HAVE ANOTHER ENGAGEMENT!

NO! I INSIST IT IS MY TRICK! DON'T ARGUE WITH ME! YOU HAVE LOWERED MY SCORE NOW BY YOUR BAD PLAYING!

OH MRS. GAMBLE! SUCH A PERFECT ANGEL OF A BRACELET! DO SO ADORE BRIDGE! AND TO THINK I SHOULD WIN FIRST! I SHALL JOIN CLUB!

THE BULL THROUNDER GRANDPA ANANIAS IS SOME TELL ME A WAR STORY O.K. WHEN I WUZ 19 YEARS OLD I JOINED THE CHICAGO I WENT DOWN TO FIGHT THE AZTEC AN ARROW KILLED MY COMRADE AND I WUZ SO I TOOK MY LANCE AND STUCK IT THROUGH I TURNED AROUND AND KICKED THE CHIEF IN I MADE THE LAST INDIAN KILL HIMSELF AND SO GRAND YOUNG BUT LIT WASH

Puzzle---Did Duke Break the Camera?

World Color Printing Co., St. Louis, Mo.

Saturday the twins drove me into town—

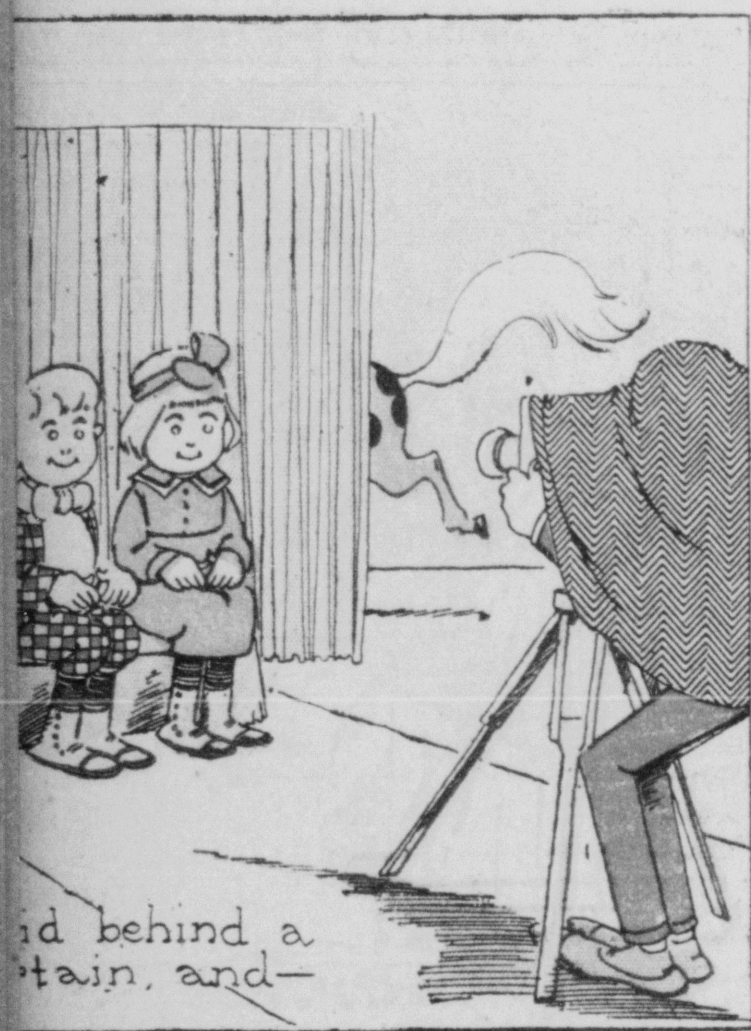

—they went into a photographer's studio and left me out side—

—I wasn't going to be slighted, so——I went in too—

and behind a curtain, and—

—waited till the picture man was ready to shoot, then I—

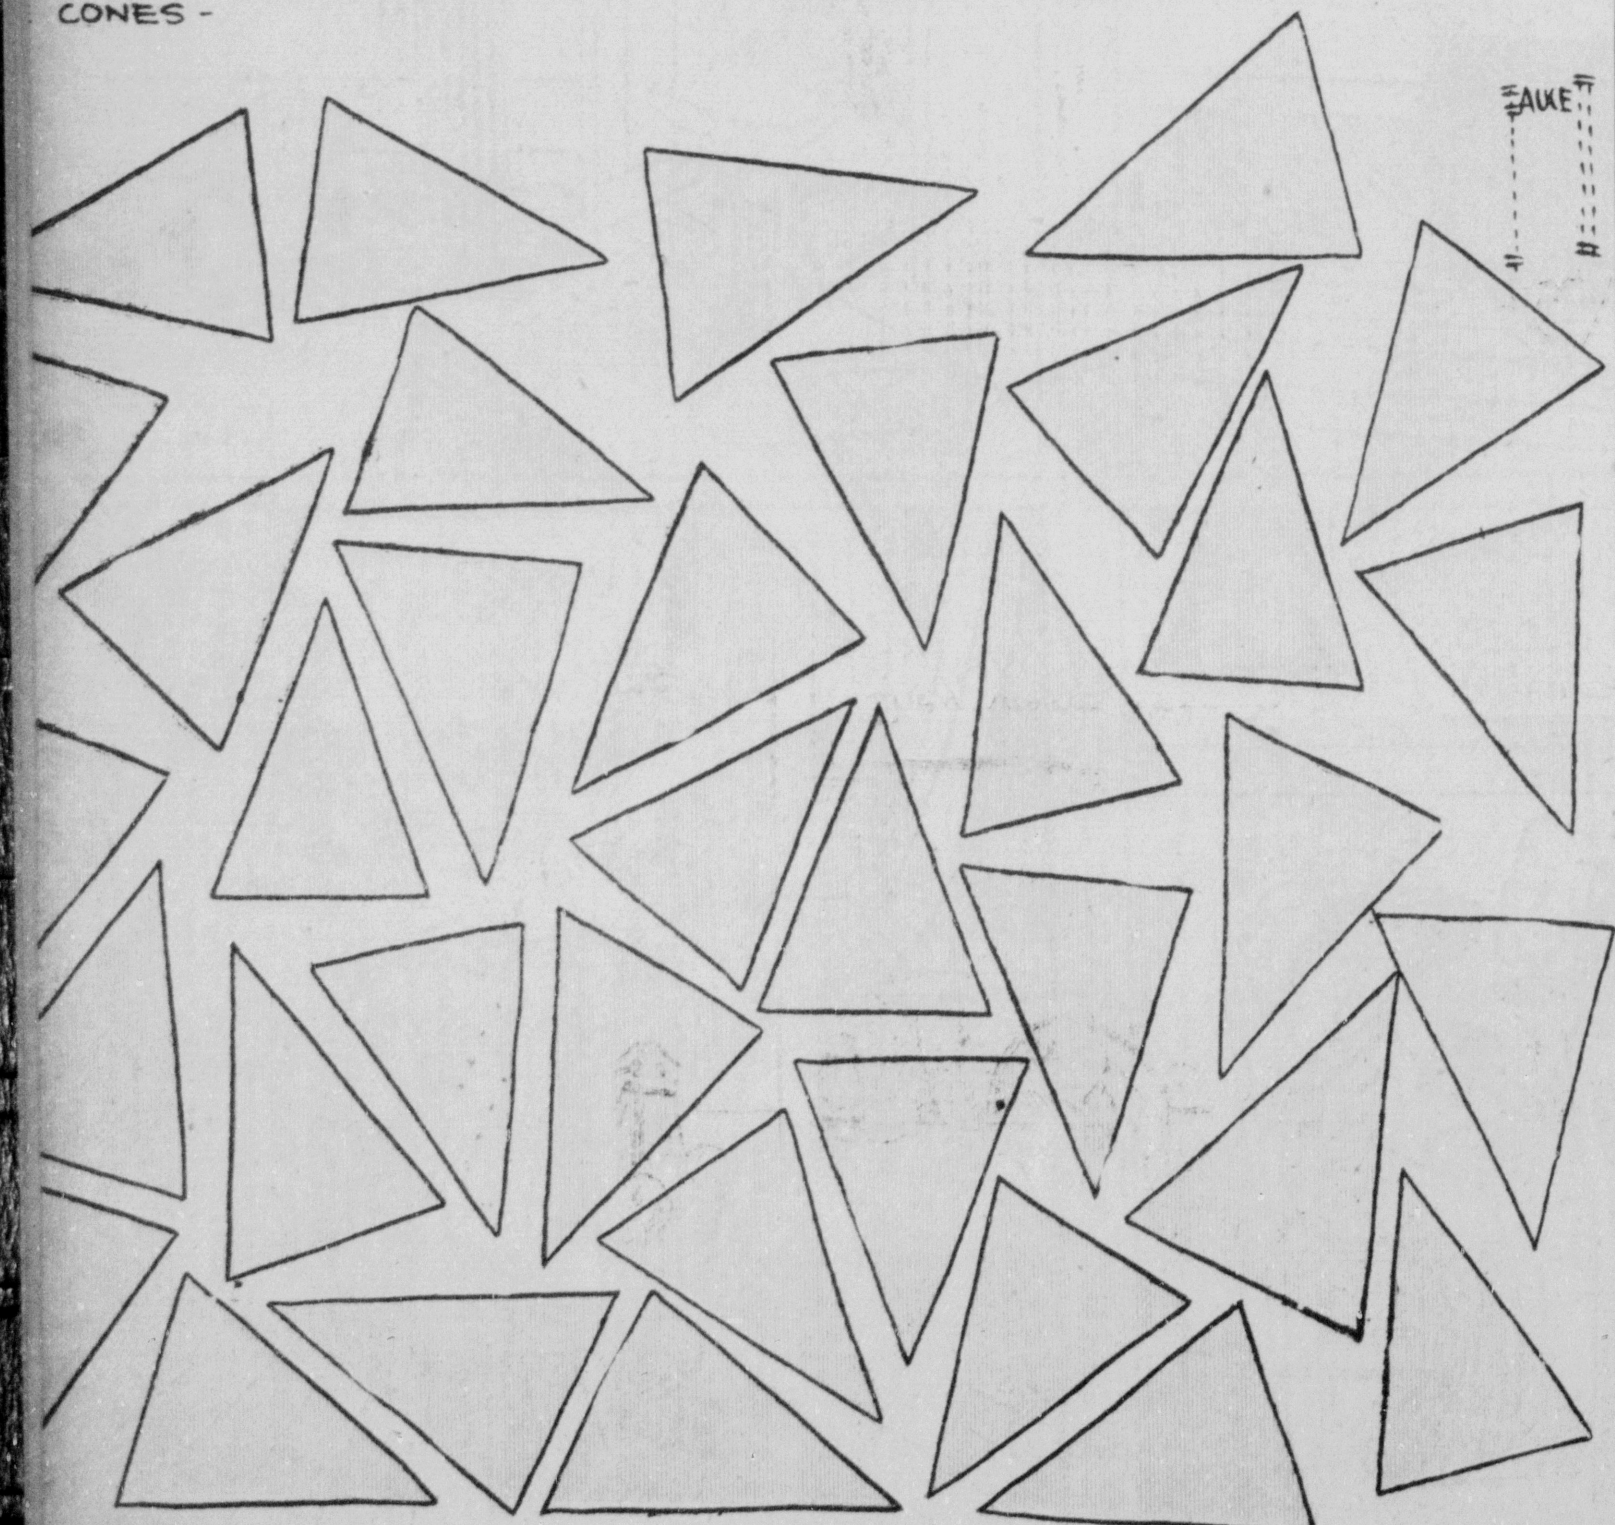

—stuck my head through the curtain—

—But, I didn't mean to hog the picture!

THIS IS A FINE ICE CREAM PUZZLE

ONCE THERE WAS A HOKEY POKEY ICE CREAM MAN WHO AT THE END OF DAY DISCOVERED THAT HE HAD EXACTLY 36 CONES LEFT OVER— THIS PARTICULAR HOKEY POKEY MAN HAS A VERY SELECT SET OF TOMERS WHO WILL NOT BUY CREAM CONE LEFT FROM THE PREVIOUS— THE MAN PONDERED AND PONDERED OVER THE SITUATION AND ALLY DECIDED TO MAKE ALL THE CONES INTO ONE BIG CONE BY PLACING M TOGETHER— CUT OUT THE 36 SMALL CONES SHOWN BELOW AND SEE YOU CAN PLACE THEM ALL IN SUCH A POSITION THAT THEY WILL FORM LARGE CONE— REMEMBER YOU MUST USE ALL CONES—

ANNA BELLE Loves Her School Teacher

Dear Friends:—I thought my school teacher would be glad for you to see her, so true to promise here she is. She is very dear to all of us and I'm sure if we only do our lessons as well as she wants us to, there will be quite a contest for Uncle Ezra's medal. You probably remember the medal I won just two years ago. My chum, Marjorie was second, and I only won from her by one point. Everyone of us have started out just fine, and if I happen to win again I will be very happy. How are you doing in your school work? Of course, most of us are scarcely settled down to good, hard study as yet on account of the warm weather, but the cool days will soon be here.

Every one of my friends who have written report SEWING SOCIETY work doing just fine, and if you haven't sent for your Certificate of Membership, now is the time to do so. Just address me care this paper, enclose a two-cent stamp for postage and I'll be only too glad to send you one. We want to keep up the good work we've started. Lovingly,

Anna Belle
